Recap on Nationals

By: Kristi Mendenhall

The Utah FCCLA state officer team had a great time at our Virtual National Leadership Conference watch party! Using National's amazing online platform we were able to attend workshops, watch demos about different skills from cupcake making to fabric draping, and network with other state officer teams. We learned more about promoting fccla, communication skills, mental health, leadership, and public speaking. In the virtual expo we learned more about different colleges, careers, and fundraising opportunities available to FCCLA members. While visiting the virtual "booths" we chatted with representatives of the varying businesses and organizations and learned more about what their organization had to offer.

An important part of FCCLA National Leadership Conference is electing the new National Executive Council. During our VNLC watch party we watched speeches and interviews from all the National Executive Council candidates. We virtually met the candidates and interviewed them. We then voted for our top ten candidates for the National Executive Council. It was a cool experience to be able to have a part in the election of the new national council. We loved being able to attend Virtual National Leadership Conference this year and all the things we got to do with it, but our favorite part was getting to meet each other and discuss ways to make this year awesome for Utah FCCLA! We are so excited for this year and everything we have planned!
